- Join a diverse cohort of highly experienced senior leaders and network with like-minded peers throughout your studies.
- Learn from world-leading academics who embed contemporary management research within their courses.
- Connect with industry through real case studies, guest speakers and mentorship programs.
- Study a general MBA or specialise in Finance, Human Resource Management, Marketing or Sustainable Futures.

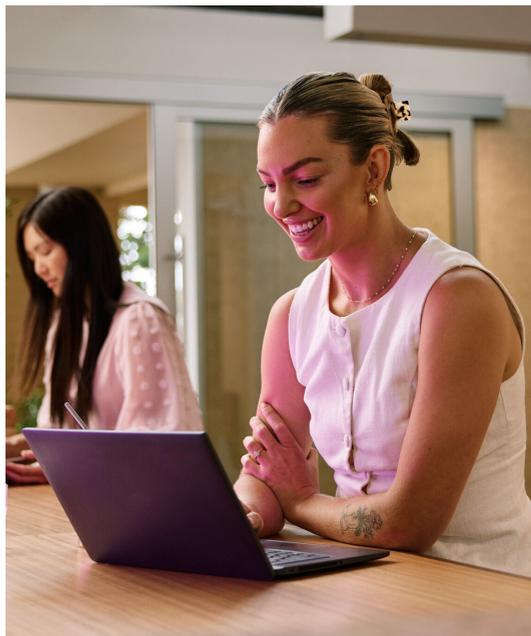

What you'll learn

Adelaide University's MBA comprises seven core courses (including a capstone) and five electives.

You'll study core courses across areas including finance, accounting, sustainability, leadership and marketing, and explore electives such as entrepreneurship, negotiation and behavioural economics.

The AICD Company Directors Course can be studied as an elective, providing you with advanced knowledge of the role boards play, and the responsibilities of being a Board Director.

In your final six months, you can choose to specialise or if completing the general MBA, select three courses from any of the specialisations. You'll also complete a capstone industry project.

"Today's leaders operate in environments defined by complexity, scrutiny and rapid change. Navigating this landscape requires more than technical competence – it calls for strategic perspective and the courage to shape outcomes responsibly. Adelaide University's MBA equips mid-career and established professionals to lead with clarity and integrity, integrating rigorous business foundations with embedded governance development through the Australian Institute of Company Directors (AICD) Company Directors Course. Our graduates don't simply advance their careers, they develop the capability to steward organisations and influence industries for the better."
